Newsletter, November 2017

Dear clients,

We had a beautiful fall so far, but now we are battling the rain. We have advanced well with the renovations of the barns but we still have a couple of weeks of work ahead.

The dogs have a brand new insulated kennel. We redid the calf barn so that they have more space inside so that we can feed them more efficiently. We remodeled the pig barns so that the pigs also have access to the outdoors in winter (once they are big enough). The little piglets now have huge heated washable stalls to spend time with their mothers until they are big enough.

You already know that we are already doing much more than what is required for organic production in terms of animal welfare. You also know that we rather put emphasis on taste. The proof is in the pudding!

We currently have no desire to expand next year, although we might not be able to control ourselves come spring. We have about as much on our plates as we can handle (and the renovations were pretty bad for our credit margin too).

Our delivery schedule for the month is

Wednesday, November 8th	Coop la Maison Verte
Wednesday, November 8th	Sherbrooke Cathédrale
Sunday, November 19th	St-Anne, Ahuntsic, Rosemont, HOMA
Sunday, November 26th	Magog, Bromont, Longueuil, Atwater

See you soon!

Gert, Sarah, Rosalie and Camille
